A Weighty Question.

Str:-As the papers are again discussing the question of a municipal government for Honolulu, and as each in its way claims to be laboring for the common good, I wish that they would time ago, the Honolulu Y. A. enlighten us by a thoroughly practical have rented the Queen Emma premidiscussion on all points of the subject. streets, to be used in Association work, Charter manufacturing is a favorite hobby horse- with many, but how few and a place of evening as well as day ing.

Now, to our mind, especially for Honolulu, one of the most important factors in the problem is the question of representation. Are property-holders, non-citizens and citizens alike, to be the main element in the election of the elective officers, and, if so, are the laws of the Kingdom to be so amended that there shall be practically a dual fran-chise in the Hawaiian Kingdom-the one for the Kingdom at large and the other for the purpose of electing a municipal government in Honolulu. In a word, is property qualification to be essential to deprive a number of the present voters of Honolulu of votes and to place very considerable power in the hands of a foreign element and especially Chinese, who at present have no vote? The elective power of Honolulo, it has been stated, has been and at present is centralized with these who believe they have the natural right to determine the future and fate of their own country. If we admit, for instance, that the movement on foot has perhaps for its foundation a desire to decentralize the governing powers, it strikes the very roots of the constitution and ing of a special franchise to non-citizens would naturally be resented by those who have hitherto head the supremacy in the Legislature and at sults dangerous to their supremacy. Should such feelings be entertained by the ruling power at the polls, how is it proposed to overcome or to neutralize it? If there is to be no change in the election system, how do the friends of Marden, the man shot at, was seen municipal government propose to furauditorium. Fine weather, gentle calculated to disarm musical criticism. But when those elements of enjoyment are united with music superior to ordinary criticism, there is a combination too delightful for description. Moreover, a novelty was imported into the usual concatenation of pleasurable factors in the shape of a quartet of saxophones, while Mr. Michiels made another of his occasional and ever welcome appearances with his cornet specialties. Both these interludes were appreciated with evident relish by the spectators. Mr. Michiels also led the band in a fantasia, with a trumpet solo by himself. Bandmaster Berger must have been rejoiced at the success of last night's concert.
